

JEAN DUPRE SHRADER

Jean DuPre Shrader, of Orange Park, Fla., graciously entered into the kingdom of God, Wednesday (April 20, 2005).

Jean lived and traveled all over the world, acquiring an exceptional knowledge of the different cultures and people she met in a life that was lived to the fullest, spanning six continents. She focused on the beauty and goodness in all whose lives and hearts she touched, thereby serving as an ambassador of good will throughout her travels.

Born in Dunbar, Jean graduated from Big Stone Gap High School in Big Stone Gap. She was a devout member of St. Margaret's Episcopal Church in Hibernia, Fla. Among her many interests were bridge, and a profound love of literature. A strong believer in "right place-right time," she has now taken her rightful place in Heaven. Although she is no longer with us in body, her loving and gracious spirit is all around us. Jean was predeceased by her father and mother, Clarence and Mary DuPre, and by her brother, Robert.

Two sisters, Elizabeth D. White of Big Stone Gap and Marion D. Cook of Marietta, Ga.; sister-in-law, Margaret A. Akers of Green Cove Springs, Fla.; and numerous nieces and nephews survive her by her devoted husband, Presley F. Shrader of Orange Park.

In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to Community Hospice of Northeast Florida, 4266 Sunbeam Road, Jacksonville, FL 32257.

Following cremation, interment will take place in the family plot of Glencoe Cemetery in Big Stone Gap. A memorial service at St. Margaret's Episcopal Church, Hibernia, will be scheduled for a later date
